

How to leverage data for sustainability: turning auditable ESG data points into operations booster

Join us for an interactive journey into the heart of ESG transformation at the upcoming Erste ESG CEE Conference session on the 7th of May. During our workshop “How to leverage data for sustainability: turning auditable ESG data points into operations booster”, we will:

- unravel the complexities of moving beyond mere paper chaos and crunching numbers to achieve true strategic ESG steering for your company;
- delve into the key elements driving this transformation, from people&culture to IT-infra, over data and processes: there is not only a technical challenge with the implementation of an ESG reporting tool, but all the other components of an organization need to pass through a change management process;
- help you discover what it takes to propel your organization towards ESG excellence: identify which solutions would fit you best, from the manual entry to automation, depending on your size, integration level, etc. As an independent system integrator, we support you in the implementation of a chosen solution into your IT landscape and processes, but we can also support you with the choice of the application best fitting your current set-up, technology and processes.
- explore the driving forces behind ESG implementation efforts and gain invaluable insights into your company's current standing on the implementation journey to plan the next steps, incl. practical tips on how to get your ESG data under control.

Don't miss this opportunity to chart your course towards a sustainable future!
